The Roozz plugin introduces a new security model in the market. When you run applications via the Roozz plugin you can be sure to always have the latest version of the software on your computer. You also know that the entire community around that application helps you monitor and avoid potential security problems related to that application. If any security problems are discovered in relation with applications from a specific vender then the application from that vender is disabled until the problem is solved. To understand the new security model in depth please read the pdf document "Introduction to Roozz security model" which you can find here: b.roozz.com/www/pdf/RoozzSecurityModel.pdf

Please note that by accepting this License Agreement you do not allow any 3rd parties to run applications on your computer. You must accept a License Agreement from each 3rd party provider that you will allow to run a client application on your computer. It is important that you only accept License Agreements and Certificates from venders that you trust. Please note that the security implications of accepting the Certificate from a vender, is equal to installing an application from that vender on your machine.

Roozz.com encourages all users to report potential security problems to help build a community of user trust around applications from each vender. (In other words, if more than 10.000 users have installed the license from this vender, without discovering any security problems, then maybe you trust that community and feel safe to install the license from that vender too.)

Please note that a License Agreement between you and the 3rd party application provider governs the relationship between you (The END USER) and the 3rd party application provider for all applications from that Provider. A License Agreement between you and the 3rd party application provider is accepted the first time you run an application from that provider via the Roozz plugin. The Certificate from that vender will be updated automatically from Roozz.com on a periodic basis.
